A GUIDE
TO THE
CHOICE OF BOOKS

O for a Booke and a shadie nooke
eyther in-a-doore or out ;
With the grene leaves whisp'ring overhede,
or the Streete cryes all about.
Where I maie Reade all at my ease,
both of the Newe and Olde ;
For a jollie goode Booke wherein to looke is better to me than Golde.

A GUIDE

TO THE

CHOICE OF BOOKS

FOR

STUDENTS & GENERAL READERS

EDITED BY

ARTHUR H. D. ACLAND, M.P.

HONORARY FELLOW OF BALLIOL COLLEGE, OXFORD

Books are not absolutely dead things, but doe contain a potencie of life in them to be as active as that soule was whose progeny they are ; . . . I know they are as lively, and as vigorously productive, as those fabulous Dragons' teeth ; and being sown up and down may chance to spring up armed men.—MILTON.

The point is not that men should have a great many books, but that they should have the right ones, and that they should use those that they have.—JOHN MORLEY.

LONDON : EDWARD STANFORD

26 & 27 COCKSPUR STREET, CHARING CROSS, S.W.

1891

Read not to contradict and confute ; nor to believe and take for granted ; nor to find talk and discourse ; but to weigh and consider.

BACON.

Books are no more education than laws are virtue ; and, just as profligacy is easy within the strict limits of law, a boundless knowledge of books may be found with a narrow education. A man may be, as the poet saith, “deep vers’d in books and shallow in himself.”

F. HARRISON.

There are three classes of readers ; some enjoy without judgment, others judge without enjoyment, and some there are who judge while they enjoy and enjoy while they judge.

GOETHE.

P R E F A C E

FOR those who have competent advisers at hand who can tell them "What to read" this little book is not intended. They are fortunate persons in an enviable position, more fortunate and more envied than they often know. The making of these lists arose from the frequent demands made upon myself and some of my friends by two different classes of persons. There were those with no advisers, who asked for the names of some of the best books on the subjects in which they were interested ; and there were those who were responsible for providing libraries of books for popular or general use. It has been impossible to discharge the task satisfactorily, and I am not sure whether the result in any way justifies the great amount of labour that has been given to the work, or whether those whose needs we have tried to meet will not be disappointed. Possibly only those who make the attempt know what the difficulties of the task really are. But whether the result is bad or good, I owe the best parts of the book to my Oxford and Cambridge friends and others who have so kindly helped me, and they are not to blame if its general arrangement is unsatisfactory, or if there are bad omissions and mistakes.

I hope that the book will be useful to the Committees of the smaller Free Libraries, to the Educational Departments of Working Men's Co-operative and other Societies, to some of those who are attending University Extension Lectures, to Home Reading Circles and Mutual Improvement Societies, and also to a good many isolated students engaged in efforts to educate themselves. Few people who have had a good education realise how great are the difficulties of many whose opportunities have been narrowly limited, who desire guidance, but who are unable, in an age when books pour forth from the printing presses in an unceasing torrent, to discriminate between the good, the bad, and the indifferent. There are still in many provincial towns and many out of the way homes those who cannot get at any good advisers, who want to use libraries or buy books intelligently, but know not how. Except in London and a very few large towns, readers cannot get sufficient help from booksellers, and too many circulating or public libraries are inadequately furnished with the books which are best adapted to the needs of students who desire to inform themselves upon literary, scientific, historical, and economical subjects. The experience of University Extension Lecturers and others has shown again and again that time is disastrously wasted by those who read antiquated and second-rate books because they know no better. Some read antiquated books on scientific and similar subjects, when the newer books would be far more useful. Others who read general literature jump at "the latest book out," and know little of the stores of interest and wisdom to be found in the masterpieces of older writers.

I have some hope too that the book will be of special service in Public Libraries to those many librarians who so industriously try to lift by degrees the taste of their readers from the indifferent and second-rate books to the good. The grants for Free Library salaries given by many of the municipal bodies are often so small, and the amount of mechanical duty therefore so great, that there is little opportunity for librarians to help their readers in the choice of books as much as they would wish to do. But as a truer conception of municipal life and duty grows among us, the better recognition of such work may be confidently expected.

The number of subjects on which lists have been given is, when compared with the ordinary library catalogue, very limited, and the principle on which the selection has been made is arbitrary. This was inevitable if the book was to be moderate in size and cheap. The case of the ordinary reader or student of certain subjects of literature, history, art, science, economics, philosophy, has been kept in view, with some consideration for children and "the home." Large classes of books have inevitably been ruled out altogether. There are practically no technical books on trades, professions, amusements, sport. There are no theological books. The list of works of fiction is limited, and a great deal of what is called light literature of all sorts is omitted, because it is just on this point that information is very easy to obtain. There are no foreign books unless translated (except in the books for beginners in languages), and hardly any books which are out of print, this last being a rule which keeps out a grievously large number of important works.

The question of advice as to the merit of different books is a difficult matter, and it may be said that there is very little guidance in a book of this sort after all. I can only say that I have studied many lists which profess to describe books or to classify them according to their merits, which exhaust and repeat all the epithets of praise, faint or unmeasured, and those which mark with asterisks certain selected books. I believe little that is of practical value can be gained by such means, unless comments are given at far greater length than would be possible here. A few words of suggestion or advice have been given here and there where it seemed advisable at the beginning of the lists. In certain cases the books are classified into Elementary, Advanced, and Reference books. The price of a book frequently gives some guidance as to its character. Beyond this it is difficult to go with any satisfactory results.

It is no doubt the case that, notwithstanding all efforts to keep out bad or indifferent books, in some of the lists—such, for instance, as Biography—it is not easy to exclude books of very moderate value. But, on the whole, a biography of even moderate merit is better than none. Ladders must be built for miscellaneous readers to lead them on to the higher and better books. Mr. Frederic Harrison, in his wise essay on the Choice of Books, has uttered many wholesome warnings against the “cataract of printed stuff which honest compositors set up.” But he could not withstand the temptation in his younger days, as he tells us himself. And however true and sane his advice may be, the lesser books must continue for many to be the starting-points from which a desire for the greater books will arise. Thus children’s books, domestic economy books, popular biography and history, elementary science books, popular or indifferent books on social economy, even blue books, may become stepping-stones to something better.

I fear that it is a very humble measure of assistance which this book will give to those who need advice and guidance. But I hope that those who may use it will remember that whatever devotion they may give to science, political economy, philosophy, or history, they will always need the help which comes from a study of the great books which will be found mainly under the head of Literature, with a few additions from the other lists. Unless they would be one-sided men and women, let them not fail to turn again and again to the great masterpieces of all time, to the books which are strong, dignified, inspiring, in which the wisdom and experience of many generations is enshrined.

It should be added that none of those who have kindly given their advice in the selection of books are to be regarded as solely responsible for the lists as finally printed. Several friends of acknowledged authority have helped me, whose names I do not feel at liberty to give, as for want of space and other reasons the lists have had to be modified since passing out of their hands. I have to thank various friends at Oxford and Cambridge, and at the University College, Bangor, and the Yorkshire College, Leeds, for invaluable help. To the following, among others, I desire to make special acknowledgments:—Mr. G. N. Richardson, Mr. Charles W. Sutton, Mr. D. S. Maccoll, Mr. H. J. Mackinder, Mr. S. Alexander, Mr. D. G. Ritchie, Mr. F. York Powell, Mr. O. Elton, Mr. M. E. Sadler, Mr. G. R. Benson, Mr. H. Jewell Smith, Miss Sharp. To my wife and Miss M. Roberts I owe a great deal of assistance, without which the book would never have been brought to completion.

The grouping of the books under large headings, which is a more educational method than a mere alphabetical list of each minor subject apart from its proper surroundings, may lead to a little difficulty in finding a subject or a book. This can only be remedied by a constant use of the Index (which is, I hope, pretty complete) or the Table of Contents, till those who use the book are familiar with its arrangement.

There is room for criticism in every page of the book by those who miss in each of the lists some of the books which they know and which they like. But, in a small and handy work of this sort, if only the books that are in the lists are in the main fairly good, this is the best that can be hoped for. For after all, to read all the books even in two or three only of the larger subjects would be quite out of the reach of those for whom these lists are intended. To be on friendly terms with one-tenth part of them would be an achievement difficult enough. I shall be much indebted to those who will suggest improvements or correct mistakes in case a new edition of the book should be required.

CLYNNOG, CARNARVON,
January 1891.

Mark there. We get no good
By being ungenerous, even to a book,
And calculating profits,—so much help
By so much reading. It is rather when
We gloriously forget ourselves and plunge
Soul-forward, headlong, into a book's profound,
Impassioned for its beauty and salt of truth—
'Tis then we get the right good from a book.

MRS. BROWNING.

NOTES AND EXPLANATIONS

The Index must be habitually used by those who have any difficulty in finding a book or a subject. The Index contains the names of all the subjects dealt with in the book, and of all the authors (with a few exceptions in the case of Biography) whose books are in the lists.

The Table of Contents gives an outline (with sub-headings) of the main subjects on which lists are given. These are arranged in alphabetical order in the body of the book, and the name of the subject is given on the top of each page. Those who are familiar with the Table of Contents will find little necessity for using the Index as far as subjects are concerned.

In the choice of Editions of the cheaper books, especially under the heading Literature, the object has been to choose those which were both cheap and fairly good, not necessarily the cheapest in every case. Some excellent cheap series of books which contain short single works or small selections have been hardly noticed in these lists for want of space, as, for instance, Cassell's National Library (each volume 3d. in paper, 6d. in cloth), which, in a form really available for the pocket, contains much excellent matter from great authors, both English and foreign.

The Standard Library Editions of the works of the great authors are not always mentioned in these lists, as the object of the book is to draw the reader to study the masterpieces in the handiest available form. Many of the standard editions of collected works are out of print. But in a large number of cases they can be obtained second-hand at very moderate prices. It is outside the scope of this book to give the prices of second-hand books, but the information can easily be obtained from any of the larger booksellers.

In the choice of Manuals on various subjects it should be clearly understood that the best, on the whole, within the knowledge of the person making the selection has been chosen, and that sometimes the advantage in favour of one manual which is chosen over one which is left out may be but slight.

ABBREVIATIONS.

ed. = edited by.	sep. = separately.
O. P. = out of print, but probably to be procured second-hand.	trans. = translation, or translated by.

NOTICE

ALL the books in this list remaining in print and published in Great Britain (with a few exceptions in the case of those not published on the usual terms) can be supplied at a discount of 25 per cent for cash by Edward Stanford, 26 and 27 Cockspur Street, London, S.W.

Adjust your proposed amount of reading to your time and inclination—this is perfectly true to every man ; but whether that amount be large or small, let it be varied in its kind, and widely varied. If I have a confident opinion on any one point connected with the improvement of the human mind, it is on this.

We talk of food for the mind, as of food for the body : now a good book contains such food inexhaustibly ; it is a provision for life, and for the best part of us ; yet how long most people would look at the best book before they would give the price of a large turbot for it !—RUSKIN.

ANTIQUITIES AND ARCHÆOLOGY

[NOTES AND SUGGESTIONS.—A few leading books only have been mentioned under this heading. For further books larger catalogues must be consulted. Much of the best information is to be found scattered in periodicals.]

Antiquity ! thou wondrous charm, what art thou ? that being nothing, art everything ! When thou wert, thou wert not antiquity—then thou wert nothing, but hadst a remoter antiquity, as thou calledst it, to look back to with blind veneration ; thou thyself being to thyself flat, jejune, modern ! What mystery lurks in this retroversion ? or what half Januses are we, that cannot look forward with the same idolatry with which we for ever revert !—CHARLES LAMB.

ART

For don't you mark? we're made so that we love
First, when we see them painted, things we have passed
Perhaps a hundred times, nor cared to see.
And so they are better painted—better to us,
Which is the same thing: Art was given for that.

R. BROWNING: Fra Lippo Lippi.

Let our artists be those who are gifted to discern the true nature of beauty and grace; then will our youth dwell in the land of health, amid fair sights and sounds; and beauty, the effluence of fair works, will visit the eye and ear, like a healthful breeze from a purer region, and insensibly draw the soul even in childhood into harmony with the beauty of reason.

PLATO'S Republic.

I. PAINTING

[NOTES AND SUGGESTIONS.—The reading about Pictures is useless without the study of paintings also. For this purpose a particular master should be fixed upon in any accessible gallery, and his works compared with those in other galleries by means of prints and photographs. The most recent historical catalogues of foreign galleries should be made use of in visiting them to correct older information given in text-books; other books will give information about the life, training, and subjects of the Painters, and the derivation of their style.]

II. SCULPTURE

[NOTES AND SUGGESTIONS.—It is quite necessary in studying this subject to have photographs. A good library should contain a portfolio of mounted photographs, if possible platinotypes, at least of the groups from the pediments, metopes, and frieze of the Parthenon in the British Museum. These can be got from the British Museum, or, with other good Greek examples, from Mansell's in Oxford Street. Photographs of Italian Sculpture should be obtained from Alinari, Via Tornabuoni, Florence. A selection from the following works is suggested: Niccolò Pisano, Pulpit in the Baptistery at Pisa; Giacomo della Quercia, sculpture Doorway at S. Petronio, Bologna, and Boys with Garlands, Bargello, Florence; Ghiberti, Gates of Baptistery, Florence; Donatello, Bronze David, St. George, and one of his groups of Madonna and Child; the Della Robbias, some of the glazed terra cotta groups in the Bargello; Luca della Robbia, Dancing Boys and Girls (Bargello); Mino da Fiesole, Madonna (Bargello); a Monument of Bishop Salutati, Cathedral, Fiesole; Verrocchio, David (Bargello); Sansovino, Baptism of Christ, Baptistery, Florence; Michael Angelo, sculptures on Medici Tomb, Florence.]

VIII. SOLDIERS AND SAILORS

And is not War a youthful king,
 A stately hero clad in mail?
 Beneath his footsteps laurels spring ;
 Him earth's majestic monarchs hail,
 Their friend, their playmate ; and his cold bright eye
 Compels the maiden's love-confessing sigh. — COLERIDGE.

Go from the east to the west, as the sun and the stars direct thee,
Go with the girdle of man, go and encompass the earth.
Not for the gain of the gold ; for the getting, the hoarding, the having,
But for the joy of the deed ; but for the Duty to do.—A. H. CLOUGH.

CHILDREN'S BOOKS

[NOTES AND SUGGESTIONS.—It has been possible to make only a small selection from the multitude of children's books in existence. The books named have been carefully chosen as being either old-established favourites or new books which bid fair to become so; and all have passed the test of having been actually enjoyed by intelligent children.]

DOMESTIC ECONOMY

To be happy at home is the ultimate result of all ambition, the end to which every enterprise and labour tends, and of which every desire prompts the prosecution.

EDUCATION

[NOTES AND SUGGESTIONS.—There are a large number of books about Education, of which the following are among the best. A very complete list of books on the subject will be found at the end of the Cyclopædia of Education (Sonnenschein, 12 parts, 7d. each, or complete, 7s. 6d.) The Blue-books and Reports quoted here refer mainly to England and Wales.]

Be sure everybody suffers when education goes wrong. The failures are the lives of men. The teacher's workshop floor is strewn, not with shavings and wasted wood, but with wasted years and broken lives.—THIRING.

GEOGRAPHY AND TRAVELS

[NOTES AND SUGGESTIONS.—In Section 5, “Travels,” some books out of print are set down. Very few of the best books of Travel are now to be had new. They must be read at a Library, or bought second hand.

In the same section, the sub-section “Europe” appears very incomplete. The ordinary Guide Books (section 6) to a large extent take the place of Narratives.

In section 7, “Atlases,” some German works are put down. German maps are the finest, and the German names will present few difficulties to any one with the very slightest knowledge of a few German words.]

Many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased.

3. WALL MAPS

Either Stanford's or Philip's or W. and A. K. Johnston's Library Maps,—a Map of the World, a Continent, or one of the three Kingdoms, mounted on rollers, costs from one to two guineas.

4. GOVERNMENT MAPS

The Agents for the Ordnance and Geological Maps are—In England and Wales, EDWARD STANFORD; in Scotland, J. MENZIES & CO.; in Ireland, HODGES, FIGGIS, & CO. The Agent for the Admiralty Charts is S. C. POTTER. Official Catalogues are published both of the Maps and the Charts, also Index-Maps.

GOVERNMENT PUBLICATIONS

In proportion as the structure of a Government gives force to public opinion, it is essential that public opinion should be enlightened.
WASHINGTON.

A convenient list of some of the more important Parliamentary papers, Reports of Commissions and Committees, Acts of Parliament, and the like, can be obtained for 6d. from Messrs. Eyre and Spottiswoode, East Harding Street, London, E.C., to whom all correspondence about Government Publications should be addressed, if local booksellers are not willing or able to procure what is required; and from whom all the publications mentioned below can be obtained by post.

The annual amount of matter published is enormous. Thus for the year 1888 the papers printed for the House of Commons alone are spread over 111 large volumes, divided as follows :—

Volumes 1-7.—Public Bills introduced by the Government or by private Members, most of which do not become law.

Volumes 8-23.—Reports from Select Committees, specially appointed by Parliament on subjects such as Army and Navy Estimates, Poor Law Relief, Sea Fisheries, Sunday Closing Acts, Sweating System, Town Holidays, and the like. These include as a rule a great deal of evidence from witnesses.

Volumes 24-65.—Reports from Royal Commissions and Departments. These include Reports from Royal Commissions on e.g. Elementary Education Acts, Market Rights and Tolls; reports from Permanent Government Departments, such as the Education Department or the Local Government Board; and Reports as to Births, Deaths, and Marriages, Factories, Prisons, Police, and the like.

Volumes 66-111.—Accounts, Returns, and Miscellaneous Reports and Statistics. These include the Army and Navy and Civil Service Estimates for the Year; Commercial Reports from our Consuls and others; Railway, Trade, Friendly Society, etc. Returns; and some valuable volumes of general statistics.

A full list of all the above will be found in an annual volume called Numerical List of Sessional Papers, price about 2s. 3d.

A few words only as to the above mass of printed material and other blue-books can be given here.

1. Copies of Bills which are before Parliament in either House can be obtained during the Session from Eyre and Spottiswoode, by post, at prices from 1d. upwards.

2. Acts of Parliament are bound up after the Session in volumes, price about 3s.; but all modern Acts of Parliament can be bought singly at prices from 1d. upwards, seldom exceeding 1s. A cheap edition of all the Statutes from the beginning is being published at 7s. 6d. a volume; the whole, down to the present time, to cost about 8 guineas.

3. Reports of Select Committees and Royal Commissions.—The actual Reports are published separately as a rule, and do not cost much, say from 3d. to 4s. But the volumes of evidence, which are often more valuable than the Reports themselves, may rise to 8s. or more, the price depending on the size and number of maps or tables. Any one ordering these should insist on having the Index to the Evidence, (sometimes published separately) which is a most valuable help.

Many valuable Reports of past Commissions and Committees may still be had, e.g. Technical Instruction, Friendly Societies, Ordnance, Forestry, Housing of the Working Classes, Irish Industries, National Insurance, Depression of Trade, Intemperance, and the like.

4. Reports of Departments published annually.—The Report of the Local Government Board costs about 3s. 6d.; that of the Education Department about 4s. 6d. There are many others.

5. Miscellaneous Papers.—There are many papers, such as Consular Reports from abroad, Reports on Agriculture, Mining, Merchant Shipping, Poor Rates, Building and Friendly Societies, particulars of which can be had from Eyre and Spottiswoode on inquiry.

6. Statistics.—There are some very useful volumes published annually on many subjects. The Labour Statistics (Trade Unions, etc.) should be specially noted. The following cheap collections of statistics, taken from the larger volumes and published annually, should be in every public library; and the first, commonly called the Statistical Abstract, should be more widely known, as it gives many interesting and valuable tables about the United Kingdom.

HISTORY

[NOTES AND SUGGESTIONS.—“No one can really study any particular period of history unless he knows a great deal about what preceded and what came after it. He cannot seriously study a generation of men as if it could be isolated and examined like a piece of inorganic matter. He has to bear in mind that it is a portion of a living whole which is under his observation. The work of the constructive imagination comes in where the work of investigation ends. In the end this is a work which every man must do for himself. He will have to pick out from the manifold facts of history those which seem to him to be more important than the others, and it will never happen that any two men will be precisely agreed as to the relative importance of any set of facts.”

S. R. GARDINER.

Some books on the History of Civilisation will be found under II. 1. Europe. Neither the History of Religion nor Military and Naval History are dealt with in detail here, but a few of the best books will be found in the following list. See also Biography, Religious Leaders and Soldiers and Sailors.]

The years teach much which the days never know.—EMERSON.

Before man parted for this earthly strand,
While yet upon the verge of heaven he stood,
God put a heap of letters in his hand,
And bade him make with them what word he could.

And man has turned them many times ; made Greece,
Rome, England, France ;—yes, nor in vain essay'd
Way after way, changes that never cease !
The letters have combined, something was made.

ii. SCOTLAND

[NOTES AND SUGGESTIONS.—A picturesque and vivid, if not always trustworthy, elementary view of Scottish History can be got from Scott's delightful Tales of a Grandfather, which should be supplemented by a more recent and less imaginative summary, such as MacArthur's. Burton's History is the best general authority after the thirteenth century; for the earlier period, however, Skene and Robertson should be substituted for it. Many periods of Scottish History are fully treated of in books on English History, such as Froude, Macaulay, and Lecky. By far the best account of the seventeenth century is in S. R. Gardiner's History of England, 1603-1642, and History of the Great Civil War.]

LANGUAGES

BOOKS FOR BEGINNERS

I. GREEK

[NOTES AND SUGGESTIONS.—If the student wants to learn Greek or Latin for reading only, not to write, he should begin reading at once, with grammar and vocabulary, taking the books at the head of the lists first. As soon as he can read at all easily, he should read no more books specially written for beginners, but plunge into Homer, Xenophon, Livy, and Ovid. Then he can take the other reading books, beginning with those that have a vocabulary, and going on to those that have to be read with a dictionary.]

III. FRENCH

[NOTES AND SUGGESTIONS.—The student is recommended to get some lessons in French pronunciation as soon as possible. This cannot be learned from books. For those who wish simply to be able to read French, it will be sufficient to work through the First French Course, and then through the First Reader and Second Course, taking the two last together. The other reading books on the list may then be taken in their order. For those who desire to acquire the art of writing French, a Composition Book has been added. For commercial purposes the two last books on the list will be found very useful.]

IV. GERMAN

[NOTES AND SUGGESTIONS.—To get an accurate idea of German pronunciation it is necessary to have one or two short lessons. The intelligent student will afterwards find little difficulty in mastering the following course without assistance. As soon after beginning the “First German Book” as possible, Wittich’s German Tales should be commenced. These the reader should write out in English. By the time he has finished the “First German Book” he should begin to turn back into German the tale

LITERATURE

[NOTES AND SUGGESTIONS.—The various headings treated under this general class of "Literature" are by no means exhaustive. For History and Biography and kindred subjects see under History and Biography; for Philosophy see under Philosophy. The number of fairly good editions of some novels and many poetical works is so large that the reader cannot go far wrong. Those only have been mentioned which are fairly good and moderately cheap. The separate works actually named, as under Scott and Dickens, indicate those which are best worth reading first. The names of the host of novels of the second and third order can easily be ascertained from larger catalogues.]

Literature consists of all the books—and they are not so many—where moral truth and human passion are touched with a certain largeness, sanity, and attraction of form. My notion of the literary student is one who through books explores the strange voyages of man's moral reason, the impulses of the human heart, the chances and changes that have overtaken human ideals of virtue and happiness, of conduct and manners, and the shifting fortunes of great conceptions of truth and virtue.

JOHN MORLEY.

By nothing is England so glorious as by her poetry.

MATTHEW ARNOLD.

The immortal and universal poets of our race are to be read and re-read till their music and their spirit are a part of our nature ; they are to be thought over and digested till we live in the world they created for us ; they are to be read devoutly, as devout men read their Bible and fortify their hearts with psalms.

I. NOVELS AND TALES

[NOTES AND SUGGESTIONS.—Some other Novels which do not appear in this list will be found under Historical Novels and Tales and under Children's Books. The separate books actually named as under Scott and Dickens indicate those which are best worth reading first.]

"What are you reading, Miss —?" "Oh! it's only a novel!" replies the young lady; while she lays down her book with affected indifference, or momentary shame. "It is only Cecilia, or Camilla, or Belinda"; or, in short, only some work in which the greatest powers of the mind are displayed; in which the most thorough knowledge of human nature, the happiest delineation of its varieties, the liveliest effusions of wit and humour, are conveyed to the world in the best chosen language.—JANE AUSTEN: Northanger Abbey.

2. HISTORICAL NOVELS AND TALES

[NOTES AND SUGGESTIONS.—The amount of actual history contained in a historical tale may range from a slight sketch of some notable character, or a narrative of obscure local incidents, to a careful study of events of world-wide importance; some are concerned with the facts of social or domestic life; others with the fate of kingdoms or nations. Their truthfulness to the facts dealt with must also be expected to vary indefinitely with the purpose and ability of the writer, and the exigencies of his tale. The one advantage common, in a greater or less degree, to all worthy books of the kind, is that of helping us to realise vividly the characters, surroundings, and events of other times than our own. Not to replace, but to stimulate and enliven the pursuit of serious historical study, is the object of Historical Novels; and to do it by giving us that insight into the human interest of bygone events which many of us find it hard to discover for ourselves in the annals of history. Our best writers have shown how possible it is to do this, and at the same time to fulfil those demands upon the writers of ordinary fiction which require their books to be, in George Eliot's phrase, "The cup of self-forgetting excitement to the busy who can snatch an hour of entertainment."]

PHILOSOPHY

[NOTES AND SUGGESTIONS.—It is impossible for a mere list of books to give the guidance which, in nearly all cases, must be needful for the prosperous study of philosophy. The difficulties are so great, the divergence on fundamental principles is so serious, that it is to be feared any who tried to gain a knowledge of Ethics or Metaphysics only by steadily reading through the books recommended would be likely to end in confusion instead of a clear grasp of the subject. No one must suppose that the following list is considered an adequate substitute for personal guidance.

Two rules should be kept in mind by the student: (1) Philosophers are always thinking of facts, and usually very familiar facts. The student should check his reading by his own experience of men and things. In reading a philosopher of a past age he should ask himself, "What does this correspond to, and how must it be modified at the present time." Remember also that a philosopher even when erroneous may be imperfectly and mistakenly representing a truth. (2) Read great philosophers themselves, and only use books about them afterwards, or with them as a help. The history of philosophy can never be a substitute for philosophy; but it is useful for understanding minor thinkers whom there is no time to study, and to show the connection between great thinkers (see especially Schwegler). But one great philosopher studied carefully is worth any amount of miscellaneous knowledge about philosophy.

The best preparation for philosophy is to have read reflective works in general literature, history, science, poetry. A student will do well to read by way of introduction some of the works under V. 1. Most, however, will probably find it useful to proceed as soon as possible to Ethics.]

Who would lose,
Though full of pain, this intellectual being,
Those thoughts that wander through eternity?—Milton.

Sure, He that made us with such large discourse,
Looking before and after, gave us not
That capability and god-like reason
To fust in us unused.—Shakespeare.

POLITICAL AND SOCIAL ECONOMY

[NOTES AND SUGGESTIONS.—There are very great difficulties in the way of any attempt to provide a good list of books on Political and Social Economy. There has been a great deal of writing of general treatises,—some very good,—and comparatively little writing of first-rate books on special subjects in English. Probably in the next few years much will be done to improve this state of things. At present many of the best sources of information are either foreign works or else scattered papers in Reviews or Scientific Journals or Pamphlets, copies of which cannot be procured. Political partisanship, again, affects the value of many books by capable men. This list is in many ways very incomplete, but it may be hoped that the publications of each succeeding year will, to some extent, remedy this defect.

Students who are beginning the subject might read Jevons' Primer and then take a Textbook, like Walker's First Lessons in Political Economy or Marshall's Economics of Industry, and read it carefully through, referring under the various heads to some of the books mentioned in this list.]

The stock of materials by which any nation is rendered flourishing and prosperous are its industry, its knowledge or skill, its morals, its execution of justice, its courage, and the national union in directing these powers to one point, and making them all centre in the public benefit. Other than these I do not know, and scarcely can conceive, any means by which a community may flourish.—BURKE.

POLITICAL SCIENCE

[NOTES AND SUGGESTIONS.—It is well to begin the study of this subject with books about our own constitution, and then to take those of a more general and less immediately practical kind. Many of the books in this list can be used for reference, without being read through. The student of this subject is advised to consult the books given under "Constitutional History" (under History), for political questions can only be properly studied in connection with history.]

Come, let us talk a little of the affairs of the nation, or some such subject that we can all of us understand.

SQUIRE WESTERN.

Let any one take to pieces the brains of any twenty persons he knows well, and think how little accurate knowledge, how little definite opinion, how little settled notion of state policy, there is in any of them. We all want more knowledge. The lukewarm politician wants knowledge to give him interest. The violent partisan wants knowledge to give him moderation. The corrupt voter wants knowledge to awaken his responsibility. If constituencies knew more, members would have to know more, and the standard of intelligence of the House of Commons would be raised.

SCIENCE

[NOTES AND SUGGESTIONS.—No works introductory to the whole range of scientific study have been included in the following list. The best introduction to the study of a group of sciences, and indeed to the study of science generally, is a sound grasp and appreciation of the fundamental principles of some special branch. In the attainment of such preliminary knowledge the student will insensibly acquire something of that fair and open mind, unbiassed by preconceptions, seeking only unmixed truth for its own sake, which is characteristic of the genuine scientific investigator.

In scientific study books must be regarded merely as aids to observation and reflection. They furnish the scientific student with a knowledge of what has been observed, or discovered by experiment, and with excellent expositions of modern scientific theories. But let the student take no statement on trust which he has the means of verifying, and pass over finally no point of theory which does not commend itself to his judgment and intelligence. He should not, however, allow a difficulty to be a bar to further progress. His best course, if the difficulty does not disappear after careful consideration, is to make a note of it, and pass on. Frequently, some further remark of the author will throw light on the meaning which formerly seemed obscure, and the difficulty when returned to will vanish.

In the experimental sciences practical laboratory work is of the greatest importance for making the knowledge of the student real and living; but even in these sciences the man whose eyes are open to the phenomena of nature finds all around him illustrations of scientific principles, and food for the profoundest reflection. The motions of the stars, the rise and fall of the tide, the changes of the seasons, summer's sun and winter's snow and ice, bird and beast and plant, all teach him their lessons, and furnish him with a continual delight which the man whose eyes are shut to natural things knows nothing of.

The student will do well to limit the choice of subjects of study at first to one or two at most, and then enlarge the range of his reading, as his stock of ideas and power of working increase. But ever let his aim be to become no student of mere "paper science," but one whose knowledge is a real living part of himself, and whose books are his servants and friends, not the controllers of his scientific faith and conscience.]

"It won't do. I went into science a great deal myself at one time; but I saw it would not do. It leads to everything; you can let nothing alone."—MR. BROOKE in Middlemarch.

There rolls the deep where grew the tree :
O Earth, what changes hast thou seen !
There, where the long street roars, hath been
The stillness of the central sea.—In Memoriam.

I. MATHEMATICS

[NOTES AND SUGGESTIONS.—It is almost essential that the student of this subject should obtain some personal help and superintendence in his work. If unable to do so, he is recommended to procure the key in the case of those books which are marked K in the following list. In no case, however, should the key be consulted, until the problem whose solution is sought has been attempted by the student. The Elementary Books on Mixed Mathematics do not require a knowledge of pure mathematics beyond that supplied by the Elementary Books of that branch.]

II. PHYSICS

[NOTES AND SUGGESTIONS.—A knowledge of the Elements of Algebra and of the Geometry of the Straight Line and Circle is highly desirable before beginning the study of these subjects. The student should begin with Mechanics, and should gain an elementary knowledge of branches 3, 4, 5, 6 before passing to a more detailed study of any one of them. He should supplement his reading, when possible, by work in a Physical Laboratory, also by attendance at Experimental Lectures on the subject. For the higher branches of Physics, a knowledge of Analytical Geometry and of the Differential and Integral Calculus is necessary. For the more Mathematical treatises, the list given under the head "Mixed Mathematics" should also be consulted.]

III. CHEMISTRY

[NOTES AND SUGGESTIONS.—The student of Chemistry, after having read the primers, should try to gain admission into a good laboratory, and should, if possible, attend a full course of Experimental Lectures on Inorganic Chemistry. Before beginning the study of Organic Chemistry, he should attend, if possible, a course of Elementary Lectures on the general features of that branch, as without help it is most difficult to begin the study of Organic Chemistry. The progress of the science is so rapid that it is necessary to obtain the latest editions of modern works.]

2. BOTANY

[NOTES AND SUGGESTIONS.—The study of this subject should be, from the first, practical. The student should begin by obtaining, with the assistance of the elementary books, a thorough acquaintance, based on the examination of specimens, of the plants growing in his neighbourhood. Having obtained this, he may then proceed to study the anatomy and physiology of plants with the assistance of the microscope and of the books on practical study. Should he ultimately devote himself to the study of one particular group of plants, he will find references to the special literature of the groups in the reference books mentioned below.]

3. ANTHROPOLOGY

[NOTES AND SUGGESTIONS.—The reader is recommended to gain from one of the introductory manuals a general view of the scope of the science of man, as he will then more easily find his way into the branches of the study most congenial to him. These lie in very different directions, including portions of subjects as different as anatomy, philology, and history. Any of these would give occupation for a life, but the attempt to become acquainted with such parts of them as bear most directly on man's life and thought is not only feasible, but advantageous in leading the student into lines of culture profitable for their own sake.

History of Civilisation will be found under History (Europe). Travels must be referred to for Cook's Voyages, &c. The books of Mariner, Catlin, Burton, Grey, Wallace, Ellis, Turner, St. John, Sibree, Im Thurn, and the like, are full of Anthropological knowledge. It is not desirable to mention here more abstruse works which the advanced student will find referred to in the course of his reading.]

V. GEOLOGY .

[NOTES AND SUGGESTIONS.—The greater part of the study of Geology must be carried on in the open air. Some amount of reading is of course necessary at the first start, but as soon as a knowledge of the rudiments has been acquired, the beginner should procure the best description he can of the Geology of his own district, and compare its statements with what he sees in quarries, railway cuttings, beds of brooks, cliffs, or even ditches. He should always try to realise the connection between the physical features of the neighbourhood and its geological structure. For points of which he cannot find illustration round his own home, he should as far as possible fall back upon Museums. The student should not be content with the mere collection and naming of geological specimens, valuable as this may be—for the end of Geology is not a well-filled cabinet, but the deciphering of the records in which the early history of the earth is written.

For local details, the memoirs and maps of the Geological Survey may be used. Catalogues can be obtained of Mr. E. Stanford, 26 and 27 Cockspur Street, S.W. Every Geological student ought to have the one-inch Geological Map of his neighbourhood, and the descriptive explanation of it, where this is published.]

[The names of all the subjects on which lists of books are given, and of all the authors, with the exception of a few authors of biographies, are included in the index. The names of the principal subjects are given in darker type for greater convenience. Whenever initials of authors are not likely, in the case of several authors of the same name, to be of much use, the subject on which the author writes has been given.]

"New friends and new loves are capital things, provided they are not allowed to displace the old, and for our part we have no intention of ever putting out of its place Mr. Stanford's 'London Atlas,' the third edition of which in quarto form is now before us. We have used it constantly for years, and we have never found it surpassed for the combined merits of handiness, cheapness, accuracy, and clearness. The maps, of course, are fewer and on a smaller scale than those of its larger rivals; but this drawback is perhaps compensated by greater ease of reference. We are not sure ourselves that a compendious atlas, supplemented at different times by the sheet maps, which all the best publishers issue at times when a particular district is of interest, is not a better thing than a more extensive volume, which, after all, never can pretend to extreme detail on the small scale. However this may be, all good things are good in their own way, and in its way the 'London' is one of the best."—Saturday Review.

A PHYSICAL, HISTORICAL, POLITICAL, AND DESCRIPTIVE GEOGRAPHY. By KEITH JOHNSTON, F.R.G.S., Editor of the "Africa" volume in "Stanford's Compendium of Geography and Travel;" late leader of the Royal Geographical Society's East African Expedition. Fourth Edition. Revised by E. G. RAVENSTEIN, F.R.G.S., with numerous Maps and Illustrations. Large post 8vo. Cloth. 12s.

"Mr. Keith Johnston's text-book of geography is a work of much thought, wide research, and no inconsiderable literary skill. It contains a vast amount of information on the physical features of the countries of the world, their climate and productions, commerce and industry, political institutions, administrative divisions, and leading towns. A set of maps, coloured so as to distinguish forest regions, agricultural lands, steppes, and deserts, forms a welcome addition to this judiciously-planned and carefully-written text-book."—Athenæum.

BY THE SAME AUTHOR.

A SCHOOL PHYSICAL AND DESCRIPTIVE GEOGRAPHY. With Maps and Illustrations. Crown 8vo. Cloth. 6s.

"This admirable little book is a short edition of the late Mr. Keith Johnston's larger work. It contains all the strictly geographical matter of its predecessor, but the curtailment has been effected by omitting the historical sketch, with many of the costly and beautiful maps. Its philosophical arrangement, broad grasp of physical science, and wide conception of the interaction of terrestrial agencies upon one another, and on the life of man, mark it off at once from old-fashioned routine text-books as something different not merely in degree but in kind. It throws a real interest into geography, and that interest is of the highest and most intelligent sort."—Pall Mall Gazette.

EDWARD STANFORD, 26 & 27 COCKSPUR ST., LONDON, S.W.

GEOGRAPHICAL AND SCIENTIFIC PUBLICATIONS.

STANFORD'S COMPENDIUM OF GEOGRAPHY AND TRAVEL, for General Reading. Based on HELLWALD'S "Die Erde und Ihre Völker." Translated by Professor A. H. KEANE, M.A.I. A series of volumes descriptive of the Great Divisions of the Globe. With Maps, Ethnological Appendices, and several hundred Illustrations. Large post Svo. Cloth.

Price £6:6s. the set, in cardboard box, or 21s. each Volume separately. The Volumes are also kept in stock in calf binding, 28s. each; or morocco, 32s. each.

I.—EUROPE. By F. W. RUDLER, F.G.S., and G. G. CHISHOLM, B.Sc. Edited by Sir ANDREW C. RAMSAY, LL.D., F.R.S. With Ethnological Appendix by Professor A. H. KEANE, M.A.I. With 15 Maps and 60 Illustrations.

"Taking it as a whole, this volume on 'Europe' is the best of the series, and in some respects indeed is comparable with the very best works on the same region in no matter what language."—Academy.

II.—ASIA. With Ethnological Appendix. By A. H. KEANE, M.A.I. Edited by Sir RICHARD TEMPLE, Bart., G.C.S.I., C.I.E. Second Edition. Revised. With 12 Maps and 73 Illustrations.

"The design of the work is to supply an exhaustive account of the geography as well as of the material and political condition of the continent, and to present the reader, in as concise a form as the magnitude of the subject will admit of, with a faithful and attractive picture of the countries of Asia. In this Sir Richard Temple and the author, Mr. Keane, have attained a complete success."—St. James's Gazette.

III.—AFRICA. Edited and Extended by KEITH JOHNSTON, F.R.G.S., late leader of the Royal Geographical Society's East African Expedition. With Ethnological Appendix by A. H. KEANE, M.A.I. Fourth Edition. Revised and corrected by E. G. RAVENSTEIN, F.R.G.S. With 16 Maps and 68 Illustrations.

"Nothing so complete on the subject of Africa has yet been published. Every region of it—the Atlas district, the Sahara, the Soudan, the Nile Valley, the Equatorial Lakes, the Southern Colonies—is treated severally. Climate, population, products, are all separately described. Every region has its own careful map, besides a number of physical diagrams illustrating the rainfall, ethnology, and philology of the country. It is, in short, a complete encyclopædia of the continent, which will be very useful to all who wish to follow the track of recent discovery."—Guardian.

IV.—NORTH AMERICA.—United States. Edited and Enlarged by Professor F. V. HAYDEN, of the United States Geological Survey.

Canada. By Professor A. R. C. SELWYN, F.R.S., Director of the Geological Survey of Canada. With 16 Maps and 48 Illustrations.

"The maps are excellent, and altogether this volume is one of the best and most widely interesting of the series."—Athenæum.

V.—CENTRAL AND SOUTH AMERICA. Edited and Extended by H. W. BATES, F.R.S., Assistant Secretary of the Royal Geographical Society; Author of "The Naturalist on the River Amazons." With Ethnological Appendix by A. H. KEANE, M.A.I. Third Edition. With 13 Maps and 73 Illustrations.

"Open it where you will the attention is arrested, and you are irresistibly tempted to read on; while its methodical arrangement, with the copious index, must make it exceedingly valuable as a work of reference. The volume is infinitely more entertaining than many novels that are far above the average, while it contains in itself the materials for any amount of romance."—Pall Mall Gazette.

VI.—AUSTRALASIA. Edited and Extended by ALFRED R. WALLACE, LL.D., F.R.S., Author of "The Malay Archipelago," "Geographical Distribution of Animals," etc. With Ethnological Appendix by A. H. KEANE, M.A.I. Fifth Edition. With 20 Maps and 56 Illustrations.

"We doubt if in any one work so much trustworthy information is obtainable on a part of the world always interesting, and about which knowledge generally is defective, and most in accurate."—Times.

STANFORD'S LIBRARY MAPS.

The Publisher begs to announce the issue of New and Revised Editions of these fine Maps, which have hitherto held the first place as Maps for the Libraries of Gentlemen, Public Offices, and Libraries, or for Commercial purposes.

The Maps have undergone a thorough revision to bring them up to date, and the cost of production having been considerably reduced by the use of new machinery, it has been decided to make a substantial reduction in the prices at which they have hitherto been sold to the Public, in the hope of extending their circulation and usefulness.

The Maps of which New Editions are now ready are :—

EUROPE. Scale, 50 miles to 1 inch. Size, 65 by 58 inches.

ASIA. Scale, 110 miles to 1 inch. Size, 65 by 58 inches.

AFRICA. Scale, 94 miles to 1 inch. Size, 58 by 65 inches.

NORTH AMERICA. Scale 83 miles to 1 inch. Size, 58 by 65 inches.

SOUTH AMERICA. Scale, 83 miles to 1 inch. Size, 58 by 65 inches.

The Prices of each of these Maps will in future be as follows :—

Four Sheets, Coloured, 35s.

Mounted on Rollers and Varnished, 45s.

Mounted to fold in Morocco Case, 60s.

Mounted on Spring Rollers, £5.

The other Maps in Stanford's Library Series are :—

THE WORLD ON MERCATOR'S PROJECTION.

ENGLAND.

CANADA.

SCOTLAND.

UNITED STATES.

IRELAND.

AUSTRALASIA.

LONDON.

AUSTRALIA.

GEOGRAPHICAL AND SCIENTIFIC PUBLICATIONS.

OUTLINES OF GEOLOGY: an Introduction to the Science for Junior Students and General Readers. By JAMES GEIKIE, LL.D., F.R.S., Murchison Professor of Geology and Mineralogy at the University of Edinburgh. With 400 Illustrations. Second Edition. Revised. Large post 8vo. Cloth. 12s.

"The style is clear, simple, and unpretending; the author has evidently striven to put the subject fairly before students rather than to express his own views, and has thus produced a book which cannot fail to be of great service."—Saturday Review.

BY THE SAME AUTHOR.

THE GREAT ICE AGE, AND ITS RELATION TO THE ANTIQUITY OF MAN. Second Edition. Revised. With Maps and Illustrations. Demy 8vo. Cloth. 24s.

"The book shows everywhere the marks of acute observation, wide research, and sound reasoning. It presents in a readable form the chief features of the Great Ice Age, and illustrates them very amply from those great tracts of Scotland in which glaciation has left its most distinct and most enduring marks."—Spectator.

PREHISTORIC EUROPE. A Geological Sketch. With Maps and Illustrations. Medium 8vo. Cloth. 25s.

"Dr. Geikie's object in the present volume is to give an outline of what appear to have been the most considerable physical changes experienced in Europe since the beginning of the Pleistocene or Quaternary period, the period immediately preceding that which is now being wrought out, and which Dr. Geikie divides into Post-glacial and Recent. He attempts to describe, in a more systematic manner than has hitherto been attempted, that succession of changes, climatic and geographical, which, taken together, constitute the historical geology of Pleistocene, Post-glacial, and Recent times. This he does in a more thorough and complete manner than, we venture to think, has ever been done before."—Times.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE PHYSICAL HISTORY OF THE BRITISH ISLES; with a Dissertation on the Origin of Western Europe and of the Atlantic Ocean. With 27 Coloured Maps. By EDWARD HULL, M.A., LL.D., F.R.S., Director of the Geological Survey of Ireland. Medium 8vo. Cloth. 12s. 6d.

"Professor Hull has rendered a signal service to students of geology by preparing and publishing a series of maps of the British Islands, in which he indicates, by distinctive colouring, the distribution of land and water at successive periods of geological history. No such series of maps, so far as we know, has ever before been published, or even attempted."—Academy.

THE PHYSICAL GEOLOGY AND GEOGRAPHY OF IRELAND. Part I. Geological Formation of Ireland. Part II. Physical Geography of Ireland. Part III. The Glaciation of Ireland. With Maps and Illustrations. Post 8vo. Cloth. 7s.

COAL-FIELDS OF GREAT BRITAIN; their History, Structure, and Resources; with Notices of the Coal-fields of other parts of the World. Fourth Edition. Demy 8vo. Cloth. 16s.

"In comparing the present with the previous edition, which was published in 1873, we find that the volume now before us has been for the most part rewritten, and records added of important events which have transpired since the issue of the third edition. . . . Such a volume as the present is indispensable to colliery proprietors or students of carboniferous geology, and ought not to be absent from the library of any literary man."—Colliery Guardian.

THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF THE EARTH: a Popular Account of Geological History. By Rev. H. N. HUTCHINSON, B.A., F.G.S. Crown 8vo. Cloth. With 27 Illustrations, 7s. 6d.

"Mr. Hutchinson has successfully carried out a difficult design on an admirable plan, and has adhered to that plan throughout. His sketch of historical geology has a genuine continuity. It is so written as to be understood of plain people, and it is illustrated by some very good woodcuts and diagrams."—Saturday Review.

GEOGRAPHICAL AND SCIENTIFIC PUBLICATIONS.

CHARTS OF THE CONSTELLATIONS, from the North Pole to between 35 and 40 Degrees of South Declination. By ARTHUR COTTAM, F.R.A.S. Popular Edition, on a reduced scale, with three new Key Maps, an Introduction, and extensive Notes.

Thirty-six Charts (each 15 by 22 inches), sold bound as an Atlas, half-roan, or loose in a Portfolio. Price 21s.

"Many excellent maps of the stars have been constructed, but the star atlas of Mr. Cottam is far superior to all its predecessors. The plan of appropriating a map to each constellation renders them exceedingly handy for a systematic study of the heavens."—The Globe.

CHARTS OF THE CONSTELLATIONS, from the North Pole to between 35 and 40 Degrees of South Declination. By ARTHUR COTTAM, F.R.A.S. Second Edition. Price £3 : 3s.

Thirty-six Charts (each 30 by 22 inches), printed on Drawing Paper, so that observers can make additions at any time. They can be supplied, folded in half, in a Portfolio, or flat if preferred.

"Surely this is the very luxury of stellar cartography, for from the days of Bayer downwards nothing has appeared comparable with the splendid series of charts now before us for the special purpose for which they are intended. . . . No astronomical library or observatory of any pretensions can afford to be without it."—English Mechanic.

POPULAR WORKS ON NATURAL HISTORY.

THROUGH MAGIC GLASSES, and other Lectures. A Sequel to "The Fairyland of Science." By ARABELLA B. BUCKLEY (Mrs. FISHER). Crown 8vo, cloth extra, with nearly 100 Illustrations, 6s. ; bound in calf, 11s.

"A sequel to that very delightful book 'The Fairyland of Science,' and deals with the marvels revealed by the telescope, the microscope, and the photographic camera. For young people or scientific tastes a better book could not be found than this. The author's exposition is perfectly clear and simple. She possesses the art of interesting the young in matters remote from their ordinary experience, and of rendering complex questions perfectly intelligible to children. The chapter on the spectroscope, for instance, and that on volcanoes, are models of luminous, unpedantic, yet strictly scientific interpretation of natural laws and phenomena. The work is illustrated with many beautiful engravings."—Saturday Review.
